I. INTRODUCTION

As a member of the Grove and Groves families, you may be interested in a genealogy which I am preparing about all of these lineages in America, dating as far back as possible and continuing up to the present time.

Are you sufficiently interested in this important subject to furnish me with the records of your family tree? The details are fully discussed in this report. The results of the investigation, when complete, should prove interesting and be of infinite value to you and to your future generations.

Please do not destroy this report as its preparation has been both time-consuming and costly. If the matter does not appeal to you, would you please either mail it to some one whom you believe would be interested enough in the subject to cooperate in the compilation of your pedigree data, or else to return the report to me? Thank you.

It is hoped that: (1) you will find in this narration many new and interesting facts concerning the Grove and Groves lineages previously unknown to you, (2) you will observe enough details written about other generations to realize why I can likewise be of service to you in helping to prepare your own particular genealogy, and (3) I may connect your records with those of others, with substantiating proof to your entire satisfaction, so that you may later know and communicate with relatives whom you never knew existed.

My home is a national clearing house for the accumulation of genealogical data on these two closely related, large families which information has been received from many sources over a period of time.

The facts contained herein are elaborated upon in order to convince you right from the start of the true motives of the investigation. They were developed by extensive research in genealogical books and allied publications at the public libraries, literature obtained from other genealogists, together with the personal experience and knowledge of the subject I have gained in compiling and preparing a vast amount of statistical records of the Grove and Groves family trees. All statements made in this report are confirmed by authentic references given in the text and in my files. It is believed that this report will serve as a very useful reference to be kept permanently in your home.

Herein you will find the origin and growth of the families in Europe; their place among the gentry there; their part in the early settlement and subsequent history of America; and their achievements and leading representatives in this country. The derivation and meaning of the names are also traced. (Please refer to the Table of Contents.)

The preparation of authentic family tree records of all those connected with the names of Grove and Groves has developed into a more costly and time-consuming venture than I had at first anticipated. Obviously, the job is too costly for me alone to carry on successfully on a large scale without some monetary assistance from those directly benefitting, including you.

You will now probably think "aw aw, I knew there was a 'catch' to the proposition - it sounded too good". However, this is no "racket". I am not intending to profit from the investigation; sincerely spoken, it is only to help you.

It is not ethical or fair to request a contribution from anyone for this work without at least offering something tangible in return. As such, I have written the appended report with the idea in mind of raising enough money from it to cover further research and clerical expense necessary to prepare your family tree outlines. Whatever small amount you desire to donate to the genealogy fund, in appreciation for the information contained in this lengthy report, will be used to cover my future overhead expense.

The only cost involved on your part in the entire investigation is for this report. This obligates you in no way to assist further, should you not feel inclined to do so. There is no charge for my services in helping you to prepare your genealogy and to connect your records with those now in my file which were received elsewhere. I am devoting all of my spare time to the investigation, gratis.

However, should you not be financially able to contribute something for this report, you may keep it with my personal compliments and good will. In any event, I would still be glad to receive your family tree records, and references of others who might be interested in furnishing genealogical data. All records I receive will be treated with equal consideration. Your willingness to cooperate will afford me an opportunity to prove how I can help you, as I have done for many others.

Kindly acknowledge the receipt of this report so that I may know if I have your correct mailing address. Your comments of the investigation are earnestly solicited. Should you have any questions about the genealogy, please let me know; you can be assured of a prompt answer.

II. PURPOSE OF A GENEALOGY

The dictionary states that "a genealogy is a record of descent from some ancestor in a direct line; the science that treats of pedigrees".

The purpose of this genealogy is three-fold:

- 1) For those who know little about their ancestors and wish to trace them,
- 2) For those who know much about their ancestry and desire to learn more, and
 3) For those who know nothing about their ancestors but wish to begin a record of the present generations upon which to build an American lineage for posterity.

You and I both know that a family tree record is a very desirable personal reference for your present and future generations to review. To some, a genealogy is so valuable a document that it is solemnly passed on in wills, from generation-to-generation, and preserved for posterity, such as is done with a Family Bible record.

Ordinarily, if a family genealogy is lost, or none has ever been made up by others, no further definite knowledge of the records of ancestors is known, or will ever be known, except thru a tiresome and costly search of hundreds of various types of records. Some of you do not care to go to this trouble and expense until it is too late. Here is your opportunity - why not cooperate with me now and your your family records compiled, with an excellent chance of being connected with other large families of Grove and Groves (whose records are now in my files) whom you probably never knew existed?

Very likely you've been asked pertinent questions regarding your ancestry, or about people connected with, or having your same surname but which, owing to lack of confirming details you could not answer fully? And, if you cannot give an answer intelligently now (even the you wished that you could), how do you suppose your future generations can solve the problem?

Suppose you wanted to verify or establish a date of birth, marriage, death; name of place of birth, marriage, death - of a certain relative? The first place to try to find such personal facts would be in a Family Bible or from a genealogy. From either reference, it would be an easy matter for you to obtain full and confirming data, if necessary, by writing to the County Recorder where the event took place.

Your family tree records should be prepared at this time and completed before the older generations, who can furnish valuable facts and references, are no longer able to help; otherwise, it is obvious that much data will be lost - possibly forever. Don't you believe that we should take the preservation of our past and present family records a little more seriously by preparing them completely now for future use?

A family tree record to be useful and valuable to you now, and to your future generations, must be absolutely accurate and complete in all essential detail. This means that as much information as possible concerning each member related to your family, either by heritage or marriage, should be reported and recorded for posterity purposes.

A useful genealogy should consist of the full name of relation, arranged according to generation, with corresponding full dates of birth, marriage, death; names of places of birth, marriage, death; trade or occupation. Records of individual spouses (in-laws) should be included as, by marriage, they are also a part of your family tree.

Even tho you are not at present interested in preserving family tree records of your immediate ancestors, the time will surely come when you will wish that you had assisted in this genealogy investigation, especially for the good obtained in having your family tree records prepared, brot up to date, and kept for your coming generations to carry on - ad infinitum.

From the first settlement in America made by our ancestors more than 300 years ago, no attempt has heretofore been made to preserve American family tree records of the Grove and Groves ancestries, except in a few isolated cases of individual family genealogies.

The English people appear to cherish the compilation of their family genealogies more than is prevalent in most other countries. In the British Isles, for instance, a home is generally considered incomplete if a full, written, up to date, genealogical record is not available for reference.

GRAFF: (Graf) - Scotland and North England - variant of "Grave". Dutch: trench, ditch, canal. Note: This word uttered by the early American settlers of Teutonic descent, with a gutteral sound, soon became pronounced by many as "Groff". The last letters of "Groff" in turn were sounded as a "vee", instead of an "eff". This is the reason why many ancestors of Teutonic descent changed their names gradually into Grov(e) or Grov(es) of British spelling.

colloquial use, an Englishman or sometimes a Lowland Scot. A native or naturalized inhabitant of the modern German Province of Saxony, etc.

The immigrant tribes came from the shores of the North Sea, chiefly from what is now northwest Germany in the 5th and 6th Centuries and consisted of Angles, Saxons, and Jutes. The Angles settled in the North and East of England; the Saxons in the Center and South; and the Jutes in the Southwest.

Ethnologically and linguistically, they were closely allied to the Frisians and Dutch, and to the Danes who later effected a settlement on the eastern coast and for a time held supreme power, as also to the occasional Norwegian invaders.

From the native British (represented by the modern Welsh, Cornishmen, and Highland Scotch), they differed widely in language and race, and only gradually effected a partial amalgamation. The language was brot into England by the Germanic invaders and there developed by the Anglo-Saxons.

Anglo-Saxon alphabet was started about 600 A.D. (previous to which time runes were used) consisting of an Old Irish form of the Latin alphabet as modified by Anglo-Saxon scribes. The Anglo-Saxons called their language "Englisc".

- Anglo-Saxon England; Low German tongues. (The language of modern Saxony is High German.) - Plattsdeutsch North Germany. A Low German tongue now spoken chiefly by the less educated classes. It comprises a number of dialects.
- Low German The German dialects of the lowlands, including Low Frankish (Flemish, Dutch and Plattsdeutsch). The group of Jest Germanic languages which includes Dutch, English, etc.

IV. HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS AND DISCUSSION

Briefly summarizing the preseding section, the origin of the names of both Grove and Groves is definitely British, derived from the Anglo-Saxon word "GRAF". When Britain was conquered by the Saxons (and others) in about the Sixth Century, no doubt there were many invaders having the name of GRAF who remained in Britain to settle and colonize.

HISTORICAL HIGHLIGHTS AND DISCUSSION (Cont'd.)

In the British Isles, the name of GRAF gradually became anglicized into either GROVE or GROVES; the latter is more widely known in North England and Ireland. When these British families (Grove-Groves) migrated to and settled in America, no change in the spelling of their names made. This is one reason why today so many people erroneously consider the nationality of these names to have initially originated in the British Isles because the name-spelling itself has not been altered for the past several hundreds of years. The early settlers from the British Isles to America colonized chiefly in Virginia, Massachusetts, New York and Connecticut.

Probably the first Groves in America of British descent was Philip Groves of Stratford, Conn. In 1642, he was the first deputy of the township. Philip died in 1676. He was married to Ann (Smith or Hawley?), and they had two girls, Hannah and Elizabeth, who became the first and second wives of Nathaniel Porter. By the Porter marriages, the Philip Groves lineage was obviously eliminated. Reference 8.

There is an instance of a "Do Groves" family who settled in our Middle States. They were probably distant descendants of John and Willelmus de Groves of Buckinghamshire, England, of the early 14th Century (1353 A.D.). References Nos. 7 and 21; the latter gives a lengthy genealogy.

Likewise, there were many GRAF families in the 1600's living in various sections of Continental Europe who had probably forgotten of the existence of their early ancestors having invaded or migrated to Britain and who, there, had changed the spelling of the name Graf either to Grove or Groves. These ancestors (Graf and La Groves), upon settling in America and becoming anglicized here, gradually altered the spelling of their names into the present nomenclature as described briefly below.

Nicholas La Groves was born in France at about 1645. He came from the Isle of Jersey to Salem, Mass. before 1668. Nicholas was a French Huguenot refugee, besides a seaman, and likely a sea captain engaged in colonial trade with the West Indies. His family rapidly became anglicized in their new surroundings (like the Teutonic Graf's of which Nicholas no doubt was a distant descendant) and eventually adopted the British customs of America. In the second generation, the French prefix "La" was eliminated, and the name changed from La Groves (Le Grove, La Grove, Lagro, LaGros) to Groves. (The last letter in most French words is not pronounced.) The descendants of this branch settled in Massachusetts, New York, Vermont and Michigan and number a large genealogy. Reference No. 1.

Hans Graf (Graff, Graaf, Graef, Groff, Grove, Groves) was born in Switzer-land in 1661. About 1695, due to the persecutions of the Mennonites, the religious sect of which he was a member, he left Switzerland and took up his abode in Alsace, France, where he was temporarily known as Baron Von Weldon. In 1696, he emigrated to America, stopping for awhile in Germantown, Pa., then moving on to settle permanently in Lancaster County, Penn. (formerly Chester County) in the Township of Earl (Graff), named in his honor. Hans Graf died in 1746, a wealthy man, and the progenitor of a very large genealogy.

The Hans Graf Association was formed in 1865 upon finding Hans Graf's grave in the Mennonite cemetery at Groffdale, Pa. with a rough sandstone slab on which the initials "HG" are still legible, altho nearly effaced by the weather. An examination of title papers disclosed the fact that the land now belonging to the Association was purchased by Hans Graf from the heirs of William Penn and later deeded to the Society of Mennonites by one of Hans' sons. A family re-union of descendants of Hans Graf, attended by hundreds of these names, takes place yearly at his grave

Many other families with the name of Graf from Continental Europe likewise early settled in America (Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and down South to the Carolinas) and are mentioned in the following Section.

As America gradually became a colonial possession of Great Britain, with a majority of the population speaking the Mother Tongue (English), it became only a matter of time until the association and environment of neighbors influenced many in the anglicizing of their Teutonic name - altho not necessarily the customs and language. Thus the gutteral sound of GRAF ("a" like in the word "awl") slowly developed into either Graf, Graff, Graef, Groff, Groff, Groh, Groft, Grove and Groves.

One Grove descendant reports the tracing of his ancestry to Countess and Earl of Grough (Holland). The Earl allegedly had a dispute with his family and took refuge in Switzerland, where the name was changed from Grough to Grove before migration was made to America.

Many Grove annual re-unions are held each summer. One is at Grand Park, Centre Hall, Pa. (8 miles south of Bellefonte, Pa.). Others are in Groffdale, Lancaster County, Pa. (Lancaster comes from the English word "Lancashire") on the original tract of land which Hans Graf purchased from the heirs of William Penn. Still another re-union is held in Huntingdon County, Penn.

The Amish and Mennonite Germans of Pennsylvania are sometimes referred to as "Pennsylvania Dutch". An article in Life Magazine (fall of 1939) claims the term "Pennsylvania Dutch" is a misnomer.

Grove Swindle: It has been reported that about fifty years ago, a group of New York lawyers obtained the names of many Graf-Groff-Grove families in America for the purpose of sending representatives to Holland to sue for a huge estate to be liquidated in the names of these descendants. Much money was raised for the expense involved, but apparently nothing ever came of the venture, except at great cost and worry to the participants (relatives).

As far as is known, all Grove and Groves are of the Protestant faith. I have a couple of exceptions, however, one being John Milligan Groves of Boulder City, Nevada. He is an A.B. graduate of Harvard University (1910); Licentiate in Philosophy from Jesuit College, Boston, and who was ordained into the Catholic Priesthood in Montreal, P.Q. in 1916. Others, in a few instances, changed their religion thru marriages.

You may well be proud of your family name. It has had acolorful and eventful history of America. Its lineage includes many illustrious personages, famous in history and in many pursuits of life. Many of them have been, or are, prominent in professions, such as clergy, law, diplomat, medicine, denistry, physician and surgeon, military, athletics, politics, besides other vocations, such as farmer, carpenter, plumber, mechanic, bookkeeper, stenographer, executive, etc.

A cross reference of some of the most popular names given in our genealogies is: Male - Abraham, Albert, Andrew, Charles, David, Edward, Ldwin, Eli, Fred, George, Harold, Harry, Henry, Hugh, Jacob, James, Jesse, John, Jonas, Joseph, Lawrence, Peter, Ralph, Richard, Robert, Samuel, Thomas, William, etc. Female - Adeline, Alice, Anna, Anne, Ellen, Eliza, Elizabeth, Emma, Eva, Fannie, Gladys,

Harriet, Jane, Lena, Letitia, Margaret, Martha, Mary, Matilda, Maude, Nancy, Sarah, Susan.

Some of the most uncommon names found were: Male - Aaron, Abijah, Alphonzo, Amaziah, Ansel, Aquilla, Ardz, Augustus, Caleb, Cornelius, Cyrus, Elvin, Felix, Guy, Hiram, Ishmael, Jonathan, Joshua, Levi, Limon, Malichia, Nozah, Percy, Pheanas, Preston, Quintillian, Reuben, Royal, Sampson. Female - Alda, Angelina, Candace, Effinda, Flocie, Floribel, Garnetta, Gwen, Mariah, Mava, Odessa, Oleta, Rachel, Savina, Zoe, etc.

Oftentimes, it is easier for a genealogist to trace and connect a particular ancestry thru the identity or clue revealed by an uncommon first name, such as is mentioned above, or by the surname of the spouse (in-law).

During thefrequent periods of religious persecutions in certain parts of Europe (our ancestry being Protestant), various nationalities of the original Graf families, unknown to one another owing to differences in language and race, subsequently migrated to and settled in various countries of Europe which apparently guaranteed them religious freedom. Unfortunately, this promise was not always fulfilled, which was the primary reason for their mass exodus to America from the countries in which they were persecuted. The Graf-Grove-Groves families arrived in America at about the same time, unknown to one another, etc. The states in which they most frequently settled during the early Colonial Period were: New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Virginia, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio and Illinois. Hundreds of descendants of each netionality can now be found in all States of the Union as well as in Canada.

V. GENEALOGICAL OUTLINES AND DATA ON FAMILIES (Are Names of Your Ancestry and Relatives Listed))

Listed below is a brief summary of some of the genealogy records of individual families contained in my files which information was received from all sections of North America. The summary is divided into three classifications each for both Grove and Groves families, depending upon the origin of ancestry: (1) British Isles and Colonies of Britain - Australia, Canada, England, Ireland, Scotland, Wales, etc., (2) Continental Europe - Austria, France, Germany, Scandanavian countries, Switzerland, The Netherlands, etc., and (3) Unclassified - In case the nationality of ancestry has not been reported, it is listed in this division.

The given names of the oldest ancestors are shown first in alphabetical sequence, followed by some of their descendants, arranged chronologically - that is, from the oldest down to the youngest.

Wherever there is an asterisk (*) preceding the first name, it indicates that a genealogical outline has been prepared, consisting of many names and records. Lack of space here precludes listing all of the names given in the separate outlines.

Tracing the records of the families indicated in the outlines, and confirming the results by double checking for authenticity, has been a difficult task. The fact that my research for these particular branches (those noted with an asterisk) is well underway, accomplished within a comparatively short time by excellent cooperation from those concerned, should prove conclusively that similar good results can be expected in preparing a family tree record of your immediate division thruout and others, provided you are willing to assist me.

It is very likely that you will recognize at least one group in the lists which is related to you. You may possibly even note the identity of other divisions, perhaps, thru an "unusual" given name of an ancestor or surname of a spouse.

GENEALOGICAL CUTLINES AND DATA ON FAMILIES (Cont'd.)

It is my intention during the progress of the investigation to prepare complete genealogies of all families listed, together with those whom I will hear from later, and connect them fully with their particular ancestries. At the same time, it may be possible to combine your family tree records with those of your other relations (already in my files or to be received during the progress of the investigation) whom you never knew existed - with proof furnished to your entire satisfaction. This would at least be a step toward completing your family genealogy.

A few examples of ancestors changing their names from Grove to Groves (or vice versa) are: Abraham Graff (Groff--Grove--Groves); Jacob Groff (Groves); Hans Graff (Graff or Grove - a few Groves); William "eslie Groves to Grove, etc.

Please send me your genealogical records as soon as convenient so that I may get your outline underway; possibly I can connect your records with others now available. If you are interested, you will be kept advised of the progress of the investigation made with your genealogy.

Some of the following names and records are undoubtedly related and need only a few "key" names to connect them. Perhaps you can do it - therefore, please check all lists carefully for both Grove and Groves designations. Thank you.

HANS GRAF (JOHN GROVE) was born in Switzerland in 1661. About 1695, due to the persecutions of the Mennonites, the religious sect to which he belonged, he left Switzerland and took up his abode in Alsace, France where he was known as Baron Von Weldon, until he migrated to America, settling in Germantown, Pa. in 1696. He HANS GRAF (Cont'd.) finally made his home on Groffa Run in Chester County (now Lancaster Co.) Penn. in the Township of Marl (Graff) named in his honor. By trading with the Indians, he laid the foundation of his great fortune. He was one of the men commissioned to lay the King's Highway from Lancaster to Philadelphia in 1723. He died in 1746. The Hans Graf Association was formed in 1865 and an effort was made to locate and mark his grave. "It was found in the Meeting House yard marked with a rough red sandstone slab, on which the initials "HG" are still legible althomearly effaced by the weather. An examination of the title papers disclosed the fact that the land now belonging to the Meeting House was purchased by Hans Graf from the heirs of William Penn and were deeded to the Society of Mennonites by one of the sons of Hans. RIFIRENCE 9937 - D.A.R.

Hans Graf had a brother, Martin Graf. Hans Graf had 10 issue: Jacob Graf (d.1770) 2 issue; Peter Graf (d.1771) m. Magdalena, 2 issue; Samuel Graf m. Christina, 3 issue; Marcus or Mark Graf (1712/5-18-1779) m. Anna (Huer, Huwer or Huber?), 9 issue; Daniel Graf (d.1-16-1770) m. Mary, 4 issue; Hans (John Grove) Graf, Jr. (h. 1696-d.1780) m. Elizabeth and had 11 issue in Maryland; David Graf (1721-1783) m. Moyer, 4 issue; Hannah Graf m. Peter Good; Veronica (Pronicke-Fronic) Graf m. Henry Landis; Mary Graf m. Kohn Key or Kry.

Some data are available on all of the foregoing issue; mostly on Marcus, Sr. and Hans Graf, Jr. Many of the descendants of the above issue are now known as Graf-Graff-Groff-Graef-Groft-Grove-Groves, etc.

Hans Graf, Sr. was probably a grandson of Jacob Graf who lived at Grafenauer Hof Castle near Manheim, Germany. Hans spoke the Indian language as well as German.

It is believed that Marcus Grove, Jr. (1740-11/3/1808) and his first cousin, Christian Graf, son of Daniel Graf, emigrated into what is now Page County in the Shenandoah Valley, Va. about 1760 and there Christian married Anna Roades and Marcus married (1762) Susanna Roades. One issue of Christian Graf later became known as Groves (Samuel).

A collateral relative of the above Christian Graf (Grove) of Va. was a name-sake of the same period of Christian Grove of Earl Township, P.. who was married to Barbara and had 6 sons and 4 daughters: Samuel, David, Christian, Daniel (d.1772), Abraham, jacob; Barbara, Marie, Nancy, Susanna.

The Grove Reunion Association is preparing a genealogy of descendants of Hans Graf. According to its secretary, Roy H. Grove, a voluminous amount of records have been compiled. Dr. E. L. Denniston and Harry M. Strickler, genealogists, have also reported on Hans Graf. C. F. Groff, in 1867, also prepared a genealogy of Hans Graf which has been passed on to John B. Grove, descendant of Frantz and Eva Groff. (Addresses of authors and genealogists will be furnished on request.) The Hans Graf genealogy is the largest one of the Grove descendants in America. Due to lack of space here, it is impossible to list the tremendous amount of data now available. ARE YOU RILATED TO THIS LINEAGE?

VI. COST OF PREPARATION AND INVESTIGATION

This is not a commercial enterprise but is conducted on sound business principles at cost, covering my bare clerical expenses, including cost of paper and postage, etc. Due to my limited resources, every department of its work must be self-sustaining thru revenue derived from you. For your generosity in contributing to the fund, thru purchase of this report, you must also be re-assured in return of value-received and, in this regard, I intend to try to please you to your complete satisfaction.

Please be open minded when I point out the following. As you know, it will require a number of letters between you and your relatives, with me, to collect and compile all of your essential family tree history. Now, multiply the number of messages sent between us by the hundreds of other interested inquirers whose records are also in my files, and the great amount of miscellaneous correspondence involved in writing to others to complete a particular lineage, together with the expense of stationery, envelopes, carbon paper, postage, preparation of manuscripts, typing of outlines, etc. All of these expenses represent a tidy sum now being borne solely by me.

Your only out-of-pocket expense for the entire genealogical investigation is for what you can afford to give for the purchase of this report. The revenue I receive from it, considering that only a few will help, should cover all future expenses.

As a fellow member of the Groves family, it is not my idea (truthfully speaking) to profit by the investigation. My spare time is gladly donated, gratis, for the good I know it will do for most of you in the preparation of an authentic genealogy of the entire Grove and Groves lineages in linking up all of these families with their early American ancestry, on thru to the present generations.

For you to have obtained the data given herein by a privately employed genealogist, or thru subscription to some highly publicized, purely commercial "service bureau" would cost you a handsome amount.

My only means of conducting the investigation of Grove and Groves lineages is thru small contributions of those interested. In this regard, practically all of the money you send for this report is eventually returned to you thru the many services you will receive from me. It is not intended to solicit more than the initial contribution from you. Once you have contributed, whatever amount, there will be no further expense or obligation on your part. Regardless of whether or not you can help financially, we will complete your family genealogy together. Isn't this a fair offer?

I hope you will appreciate this report as my introductory offer to get you interested in the subject. What I have done so far with the problem, and what I can do for you in the way of helping to begin and finish your family tree records and also to connect your family with other relatives whom you never knew existed (with proof to your satisfaction), should be an inducement for you to assist me now. How about it?

VII. WHAT IS WANTED FOR YOUR GENEALOGY

What is wanted for your genealogy is a series of complete, accurate facts regarding each member of your ancestry. It is obvious that a genealogy would not be valuable or useful to you now, or to your future generations as a family reference, if it were not absolutely accurate in every detail, with complete records shown for every descendant (including spouses).

WHAT IS WANTED FOR YOUR G_NEALOGY (Cont'd.)

It is not my purpose or intention to divulge scandal or gossip concerning your personal affairs, as those matters are strictly of your own business. However, if divorces, adoptions, etc. have occurred, they are merely incidental to the record and should, of course, be reported to indicate their connection to the family tree. Anything confidential you tell me (if you request it be kept off the "record") will be treated as such and placed in my files only.

It is common practice among some when preparing their family tree histories to limit the records to those with the ancestor's surname, thus only partially reporting and, oftentimes eliminating, such relations not having the same nomenclature, owing to marriage. In other words, equal care should be taken, when preparing your family genealogy, to compile and report the records of everyone connected with your family, whether by heritage or by marriage.

Using the Grove and Groves units as a typical hypothetical example. The sons retain their surname thru succeeding generations, whereas the daughters, upon marriage, assume the legal surnames of their spouses, thereby losing their former name-identity. However, the descendants of the daughters, altho having different surnames, have just as much Grove or Groves "blood" flowing in their veins as similar descendants of the sons who are at present carrying on and using the name. Both groups of descendants (issue of early sons and daughters of ancestors) are, of course, equally related to their ancestries. Very often the records of descendants of the daughters are reported only when a genealogy has been prepared by the family of the male spouse.

If a person's name, together with dates of birth, marriage and death, alone appear on an outline, the questions invariably arise - (1) where was he born; married; died, and (2) what was his trade or occupation? Should confirmation of any fact in the genealogy outline be desired, knowing the name of person and pertinent date, it is merely a routine matter to contact the county recorder where the event took place for the necessary data, provided the where is known.

VIII. HOW TO PREPARE AND REPORT A GENERALOGY

- 1) Write down a list of full names of all relations of which you know (including spouses "in-laws") and arrange them according to family and generation. Go back as far as you can, then continue up to the present time.
- 2) Opposite each name, write as much as you can of the
 - a) Full dates of birth, marriage, death,
 - b) Names of places of birth, marriage, death,
 - c) Trade or occupation (such as: teacher, housewife, mechanic, farmer, lawyer, nurse, carpenter, storekeeper, etc.), and
 - d) Date and place of adoption or divorce.
- 3) Include something interesting, if possible, concerning prominent relatives, i.e. achievement, educational qualifications, trials and tribulations, successes and misfortunes, etc. This information will be very newsy for your future generations to review. (Pictures, cuts or reproductions of "ol' timers", clearly identified, would help, too. Please let me know if such are available in case I later find use for them.)
- 4) Check your information for (1) proper order of families according to sequence of generation, (2) accuracy of full names, (3) full dates, (4) names of places where events took place, and (5) spelling.

- 5) You can get a general idea of what it takes to prepare your family tree records after you have complied with these preliminary requirements. Multiply your records by several hundred others which are essential to complete the lineage of all those connected with your ancestry, and you will visualize the large amount of research and preparatory work I will be doing for you.
- 6) In the future, should any change occur in your family geneal gy, such as birth, marriage, adoption, divorce, death, etc., will you please advise me of the facts? This will obviously enable keeping my "master copy" brot up to date. It would be possible later to issue revisions of the records of your ancestry to those concerned.

IX. SOURCE OF GENEALOGICAL DATA

- 1) In your Family Bible.
- 2) Write to relatives for certain records and also interest them in the subject.
- 3) Observe inscriptions on tombstones in cemeteries.
- 4) Request certifications of (birth, marriage, death, adoption, divorce, etc.) from churches and court house records where the event took place.
- 5) Advertise in pertinent periodicals. Will books, Deeds, etc. at Court Houses.
- 6) Review various genealogical bibliographies and references in books at public libraries. (Refer also to Section III.)
- 7) Employ a professional genealogist (which is quite a costly venture altho generally successful). Participating in the work with me will cost you nothing!

X. WORK INVOLVED UPON MY RECEIPT OF YOUR FAMILY TREE RECORDS

I realize that most of you have not kept a complete family tree record of your ancestry which is the primary reason why my services and file records should prove of value to you. As such, will you kindly send me as much information on your family as you have, following the procedure given in Sections VII and VIII.

Upon my receipt of your records they will be first checked to determine whether other data now on hand ties in with what you have sent. (I already have a vast amount of records and hundreds of letters each giving miscellaneous details, some of which are listed in Section V.

Further instructions will later be given to you on the subject. Possibly I can tell you something about your unknown relations even at this early stage of the investigation.

All data pertaining to your particular genealogy will then be consolidated and typed in tabular form. Copies of the records will be mailed to you and to any references you furnish in order to check the details for accuracy of names, dates, places, spelling, etc. You may also be able to supply additional or missing facts inadvertently overlooked in what you sent but their absence is clearly shown on the typed outlines. As fast as new information is developed, the typed records of all individual outlines are revised currently, and those which the revisions affect are immediately informed so as to bring their outlines up to date.

WORK INVOLVES UPON MY RECEIPT OF YOUR FAMILY TREE RECORDS (Cont'd.)

I have tried various methods of compiling and preparing genealogical outlines which covered the preparation of a large amount of family tree records in a simple, convenient and economical manner. It is believed by experience that the tabular or statistical form is best adapted - at least for the early stages of the work.

However, when the genealogy outline is complete, and the records are ready for final editing and possible book publication, other types better suited than the tabular form might be considered. There are numerous suitable plans, arranged in style, simplicity, and form, which are quite adequate for the purpose and which may be obtained from reference books in the local public library or purchased from a genealogical publisher.

The tabular form, found best suited for preliminary compilation work, covers preparing the family tree records (by writing or typing) on a sheet of paper, arranged lengthwise, with the following headings spaced appropriately across the page:

Ancestry:

Dates of Names of Places of Trade or Name of Relation Birth Marriage Death Birth Marriage Death Occupation

Beginning under the first column "Name of Relation", the full name of oldest ancestor is written; underneath on the next line, follows the full name of spouse; on the succeeding lines, below, show the names of descendants and spouses in proper sequence according to generation and age (oldest down to youngest). Changes in generations are indicated on the tabular form by "staggering" or indenting a few spaces the names of the generation as a group. The names of both parents of the oldest generation are shown opposite the top heading "Ancestry".

The appropriate family tree records appertaining to each individual listed are written opposite the name, across the page and under the different headings. When this has been done, it is easy to note at a glance, by any blank spaces or lines (opposite the name) just what data are yet missing. Efforts should then be concentrated to obtain elsewhere such lacking details in order to finish the outline.

Perhaps you can judge the value and merit of my method better when you later receive typed copies of the records you send me which are reported to you in outline form.

XI. MY CONMECTION VITH THIS GLM ALOGY

Many have inquired why I became interested in this subject. In answer, it has been only in the last two years that I learned of the existence of relatives (Groves) on my father's side. (Father was lost to me when I was a youngster and, consequently, I was reared in the vicinity of my mother's folks.)

I have been asked many pertinent questions regarding my specific ancestry, especially concerning people connected with the same surname (Groves). Owing to lack of confirming details, the questions obviously could not be answered satisfactorily. The thot, therefore, often occurred to me - if I cannot give an answer intelligently on my ancestry now - how will my future generations solve the same problem?

Mother once told me about a cousin of father's, Mrs. Elizabeth Leming, living in Des Moines, Iowa, who had a family bible, and I wrote to her. She answered by sending me the biblical records of my great-grandparents, Andrew G. and Elizabeth "Betsy" (Sager) Groves of Des Moines; also the records of their ten children, one being that of my grandfather, William Henry Groves. By extensive correspondence with relatives whose references were supplied me, over a considerable period (who were heretofore unknown to me), each furnishing a little data, together with references of others for me to contact, I have been able to prepare and practically complete the entire genealogy of descendants of Andrew G. Groves. This particular genealogy consists of almost 1000 names with full corresponding genealogical records.

Another clue gave me a contact with Mrs. Martha Mitchell Stewart, of Whittier, California, who I learned is a granddaughter of Elizabeth Groves [Miller-Knostman], a sister of my great grandfather, Andrew G. Groves. (I am working on the Elizabeth Groves [Miller-Knostman] genealogy which, when complete, will number over 500 names with corresponding genealogical records.)

Mrs. Stewart has in her possession an interesting family heirloom covering the original record of the birth and baptismal certificate of her grandmother, Elizabeth Groves. The record is written in German and, translated, reads: "In the year of our Lord and Jesus Christ, on the 14th day of March, 1810, was Elizabeth Grossin born. The father, Jacob, and the mother, Katarina; on the same day, the parents themselves were witnesses to the baptism." At the bottom of the record, in English, is written "Shenandoah County, Virginia". (The suffix "in" affixed to the surname Gross [Grossin] signifies the German feminine gender.)

Mrs. Stewart sent me the original genealogy prepared in German script in 1800 by her great grandparents, and I had a negative photostat copy made of it for future reproduction. The record shows that there were 14 issue, 11 of which lived to marry and to rear large families. (Refer to page 18.) As some relatives that the original surname was Groff, Groft or Grost, the photostat was, therefore, submitted for examination both to the German Consulate General in San Francisco and to the Department of German, University of California at Berkeley. They answered that our ancestor's names were Jacob Gross and Katarina Grimm of Teutonic descent. The issue of Jacob and Katarina (Grimm) Gross took the name of Groves. (Va., Pa., Ohio, Iowa).

By this time, I was extremely interested in learning more concerning the ancestry of my great-great grandparents (Gross), dating as far back as possible and up to the present time, besides working up separate genealogies on each of their ll issue. At that time I believed all Groves' in America were connected with this particular lineage, due mainly to the vast number of descendants of my great grandfather, Andrew G. Groves who was only 1 of the 11 Gross issue. (How utterly mistaken I was in this regard is related later in the report.)

Not being able to obtain names and addresses of any descendants of brothers and sisters of Andrew G. Groves and Elizabeth Groves, I wrote to the editors of two nationally known magazines, Newsweek and Look, explaining my interest in the matter and asking for their assistance. The appeal was answered with insertions on the subject printed in the "letters to the editor" column - Newsweek, Feb. 6, 1939; Look July 18, 1939, with a revised insertion later appearing in Look for Oct. 10, 1939.

The results of the periodical announcements brot forth a deluge of letters (over 700) from all parts of North America - even from Argentina, England and Australia. Answering the inquiries, and handling subsequent correspondence promptly with them, has surely kept my spare time well occupied!

The replies proved that my first assumption of all Groves in America were of Teutonic descent was erroneous, as you will readily observe in Sections IV and V. The letters received thru the magazine articles produced very little additional data on descendants of Jacob and Katarina (Grimm) Gross, which I was earnestly seeking.

The inquiries, however, made it clear that the name of GROVE was very closely related with that of GROVES, as there were numerous instances of our ancestors having interchanged the spelling of their names. Thus, some of us now known as GROVES were originally GROVE - and vice versa. Specific examples are shown in Section V.

MY CONNECTION : ITH THIS GENEALOGY (Cont'd.)

As a result of the numerous replies from the magazine insertions, I determined to prepare and compile genealogical records of all Grove and Groves lineages in America, with the records of ancestors dating as far back as possible, and including the records of their descendants up to the present time. Little did I realize then what a tremendous job was confronting me - with over 25,000 records so far on hand - and the surface of the subject only just "scratched".

Since the initiation of the investigation of genealogies of the Grove and Groves ancestries, my home address has become a national clearing house for family tree data on these two very large lineages.

XII. MISCELLANEOUS DATA

In the initial joy of doing something worthwhile for those connected with the names of Grove and Groves by preparing a national genealogical reference manual, there was also much disappointment. Some of those answering the magazine announcements apparently were merely curious to learn of my "real" motive for advertising the preparation of family tree records of all the Grove and Groves. Many that perhaps that I was searching for heirs to an "estate" to be liquidated and, subsequent correspondence sent to them elicited an indifferent attitude, with no encouragement for their cooperation, as they had originally promised me. They are the particular ones who some day will regret not having cooperated at this time in furnishing whatever records they have and thus taking full adventage of my offer of assistance.

The majority of inquirers, I am happy to state, were highly pleased to learn of someone taking the initiative and responsibility of assuming such a big job in preparing and editing the combined genealogies. "ith alacrity, they have offered their full cooperation in furnishing me with their family tree records, and have supplied references so that I could obtain additional facts. Sincerely speaking, I'd like to thank them individually for the cooperation, enthusiasm, and faithfulness in mailing me their genealogical records.

The hospitality of members of the Grove and Groves families is well known. In this connection, should any of you ever be in my "neck of the woods", figuratively speaking, by all means please call on me - at which time I should also be happy to show you the large number of records, properly classified, so far accumulated, besides explaining to you the many ramifications of the investigation.

As a fellow member of the Groves family, my interest in the genealogy investigation is chiefly sentimental and academic; while being able to do something worthwhile for the present generations connected with the names of Grove and Groves, and to enable them to leave valuable and authentic family tree records for posterity.

Generally speaking, the younger generation has little interest in knowing the identity of its ancestors. It is mainly those of middle age and older who often wonder who their forefathers were. This is especially true when their children, grandchildren, and others, ask for information on their ancestry.

Facts, which are readily substantiated in my files, are employed thruout this report. Proper credit by references is given to material selected from other genealogical publications. It is felt that you will appreciate the thoroness of concrete statements being more desirable than mere vague generalities.

Regardless of whether or not you are financially able to burchese this report, which funds will make it possible to carry on the work, your cooperation in furnishing family tree records is earnestly solicited. Your correspondence will be given prompt attention. The preparation of your particular genealogy involves no expense to you, as previously mentioned.

Kindly pass along the word to others about the genealogy, mentioning that we are desireous of getting a complete and an authentic record of descendants of all generations. Ask them to help by preparing and mailing to me their information for inclusion with the large amount of data I have already compiled on the subject. If you wish, you may send me any names and addresses, and I will be glad to communicate with them.

Please forward me whatever family true data you have as a beginning, as there is every reason to believe that I can connect your data with what I have on hand, or will later receive from other sources during the progress of the investigation. Every bit of information, however large or small, will help a lot. The sooner I receive your details and cooperation, the sooner this work can get underway in earnest.

XIII. DIR CTORY OF NAMES AND ADDRESSES

A directory of names and addresses of all those connected with the Grove and Groves families is being prepared. This, of course, includes spouses (husbands and wives). Will you please send me a list of such names and addresses for inclusion in the proposed directory? These will be grouped according to the nationality of the ancestor and arranged alphabetically according to first name or initial. Such a directory would be valuable addends for combining with the entire genealogies when they are published.

XIV. PUBLICATION OF CO.PL IDD G AMALOGIES

It is intended, when all the genealogical data on both of these families have been fully compiled, that the statistics will be printed in one or two separate volumes (depending upon the extent of information), properly tabulated and indexed according to name and nationality of ancestor, etc. The literature will be available to those concerned at cost, obtained tru me or direct from the published. It will also be made accessible for use in our public libraries as references and filed there permanently for posterity. It is optional with you whether your records should be included in this contemplated publication. Please let me know if you do not approve of having your records published.

Full facts of the publication proposition will be given to you later, at which time you can decide whether or not you would like to own a complete copy of either the Grove or Groves (or both) genealogies at a low cost - and I mean at printing cost. Don't you think this is a fair proposition? The number of copies printed and sold would, of course, determine the price of the book. There is no obligation on your part in expressing an opinion about purchasing the book. However, does the idea interest you?

An effort has been made to print in Section IV as much of each family's genealogy as limited space would allow in order to acquaint and arouse your interest in the subject. When the job is complete, all lineages listed in my files may be directly connected with their earliest ancestries. They should show the full name of relation, properly identified according to generation, together with full dates of birth, marriage, death; names of places of birth, marriage, death; trade or occupation - along with full records of spouses. Obviously, it is possible to reproduce only a negligible amount of my records in this introductory report.

Will you please tell me what you know of the historical background of any member of your family or ancestry, such as successes, misfortunes, trials, tribulations, educational qualifications, etc. This information should prove of interesting reading (when published) for the present and future generations to review. When your family tree records have been reported, and changes later occur; such as birth, marriage, death, divorce, etc., will you please let me know so that I can revise my records?
